Invitation for Sponsors

On behalf of the Institute of Agricultural Resources and Economics and the University of Latvia, the co-hosting institutions of the event, we invite you to become a sponsor to the 13th International Barley Genetics Symposium (<https://ibgs.arei.lv>).

The symposium will be held from July 3-7, 2022, in Riga, the capital of Latvia. These meetings have never been held in the Baltic countries before and the last meeting in Europe was in 2004.

The International Barley Genetics Symposium, normally held every four years, is the single most important scientific event for barley researchers all over the world.

The symposium has been designed to attract common interests and create synergy among barley researchers, industry experts, stakeholders and other participants from international barley community.

We encourage participants to exchange information and ideas while meeting potential collaborators and maximizing the networking potential of the Symposium.
